BOOKS BY MARY BLECKWEHL

CLAIRE'S HAIR! A Tale of Hair, Heart and Humor

Claire's hair is red, long, and fantastically hilarious. Her best friend Albert thinks so too. They use it to jump rope; they swing through the jungle on it; they even use it to tie up the neighborhood "robbers"--and you can bet there are a lot of those! But Claire's hair is also wild, tangled, dirty and just plain crazy. Mothers don't care for that and Claire is no exception.

COURTING FAILURE

A Path to Success

Godfrey Harris and
Kenneth Harris

Failures ought to be seen as opportunities for learning and improvement rather than shame and embarrassment. Instead of protecting kids from the pain of not succeeding, parents should encourage kids to take risks and treat those risks as a necessary ingredient of progress. This book has practical exercises to learn how to cope with and benefit from the consequences of failure. Leonardo da Vinci, Abraham Lincoln, and Thomas Edison all courted failure! ## CONSCIOUS PARENTING

By Lee Lozowick

The first two years are most crucial in a child's education and development, and children learn to be healthy and "whole" by living with healthy, whole adults. Parental role-modeling is the most essential component,
